

An Index of Plant Collectors in Brazilian Amazonia (*)

GHILLEAN T. PRANCE(**)

INTRODUCTION

During the course of my work as Curator of Amazonian Botany at the New York Botanical Garden, I frequently get requests for information about collectors in Brazilian Amazonia. This led me into the preparation of an index of collectors. This index is not presented as a comprehensive and complete work but rather as a compilation of all data available to me at the present time. Hence for some collectors great detail is given and for others only an outline simply depending upon the information which I was able to obtain. Additions and corrections will always be most welcome.

In cases where much of the information about a collector is already available in another easily accessible publication, I have merely drawn attention to this instead of repeating the same data.

Information has been gathered from a large number of sources. For collectors still living the degree of detail largely reflects how much information they were willing to communicate, and I am extremely grateful for the many replies to my letters asking for data.

GEOGRAPHICAL RANGE OF INDEX

For the present time I have restricted this index to collectors from Brazilian Amazonia only. That area is defined as the States of Amazonas, Acre, Pará, the western part of Maranhão, the northern part of Mato Grosso and the Territories of Roraima, Amapá and Rondônia (see map).

For the sake of uniformity I have used the modern names of cities which often appear on the labels of the older collectors under their former names. For example: Manaus (not Barra), Tefé (not Ega) etc.

A few collectors who have made large collections on the periphery of this area are mentioned, and it is hoped to treat the rest of Amazonia at a later date.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am extremely grateful to the numerous people that have provided data for this index. I should especially like to thank Dr. Paulo Cavalcante of the Museu Goeldi, Belém for furnishing much data about collectors from both herbaria in Belém, and Dr. William A. Rodrigues for data about collectors of the Instituto Nacional de Pesquisas da Amazônia. I am also grateful to Mr. Enrique Forero, and to my wife Anne E. Prance for much help in compiling this index, also to Mrs. Frances Maroncelli for typing all my drafts. This work is really the result of a New York Botanical Garden field program in conjunction with the Instituto Nacional de Pesquisas da Amazônia, Manaus, and I am grateful to the director and staff of the Instituto for much help, and to the National Science Foundation for grants GB-4641, GB-7356 and GB-18655 in support of the field program.

In 1929, Dahlgren was accompanied by Emil Sella, a plant model maker and he collected mainly material for exhibition and economic plants. He travelled from Belém to Manaus, but most of his collecting was in the lower Rio Tapajós at the Ford rubber plantation in Boa Vista. He enlisted the help of P. Capucho & R. C. Monteiro da Costa who collected herbarium specimens & wood samples from trees being felled during clearing operations for rubber plantations. Capucho & Monteiro da Costa sent material to Dahlgren for about 3 years. This work from the rubber plantation by Dahlgren, Capucho and Monteiro da Costa produced 1,503 herbarium specimens and 665 correlated wood samples.

Dahlgren also made a short side trip to the state of Maranhão as well as collecting in northeastern Brazil and in many regions outside Amazonia.

Most of Ducke's collections were made under the number series of the Institution for which he worked. Collections up to 1918 were collected under the Museu Goeldi (MG) numbers and collections from 1919 under the Jardim Botânico, Rio de Janeiro (RB). Care should be taken in citing Ducke numbers since many collections bear both MG and RB numbers. From 1937 he started his own number series for private distribution. This series is of about three thousand numbers.

The precise details of Ducke's excursions are not given here because they have already been published in great detail by Egler, Bol. Mus. Goeldi 18 : 1 - 129. 1963; see also Archer, Taxon 11 : 233 - 242. 1962.

Ferreira's expedition was without doubt one of the most interesting to explore Amazonia since he was the first naturalist to collect plants in Brazilian Amazonia, yet he covered a greater itinerary than the majority of collectors cited here.

For further details about Ferreira see : França, C. : Doutor Alexandre Rodrigues Ferreira, História de uma missão científica ao Brasil no século XVIII. Bol. Soc. Brot. Ser. 2. 1 (1) : 65-123. 1922, where an identification ist of plants held at LISU is given.

Collections at LISU, K and P. Many Ferreira collections were distributed without the collector's name many marked "ex Herb. Lusitanica, Pará". This is especially true of Paris collections of Ferreira. Paris has 1,114 sheets of Ferreira collections, and LISU has 1,213.

In addition, most sheets are labelled Pará, but may have been collected throughout the region covered by his itinerary. This is the explanation for apparent geographical irregularities in his collections.

Some of the places cited in this itinerary did not exist as early as 1783-92 but names were added to make the itinerary more easy to follow.

Ferreira also made many zoological and anthropological collections

above which were all part of the Commission of Telegraphic Lines. In addition to the Tele-trips to Amazonia where he collected in a different number series also starting at 1.

Many of his plants from these trips were collected under the Rio de Janeiro Botanical of Kuhlmann's own numbered collections were distributed with just the RB number. For this reason it is always better to cite the RB

RB,R

The herbarium collections of Rodrigues at RB & R are quite small and incomplete, and often it is necessary to typify his species from plates in his publications.

The collection which he made during his 7 years as director of the Museu Botânico do Amazonas from 1884-1890 were apparently completely lost since no trace of them can be found in Manaus or anywhere else. He left them in Manaus, and since the museum ceased to exist on his return to Rio de Janeiro the specimens were not cared for and probably eventually thrown away.

Jan. - Feb. Forte Príncipe do Beira (with Byron & L. Coêlho) 4221-4333.

First set of specimens deposited at INPA, others widely distributed in Brazil, e.g. MG, IAN, RB, some at NY.

Collections made with a large number of field assistants whose names appear on the labels and are mostly mentioned here under their own names.

ROYAL SOCIETY EXPEDITION

From 1966-1968 the British Royal Society conducted an extensive expedition in Mato Grosso. Much of the collecting was made south of the region covered by this index.
However, important southern range extensions of Amazonian plants were made in the northernmost part of the area covered by the expedition. The expedition's base camp and headquarters were on the road from Xavantina to Cachimbo at 12°51' S; 51°52' W. During the expedition many different collectors visited the region each for a few months. Since all participants collected in the same region
the full details are not given under the individuals.
Most of them collected in the vicinity of Xavantina, along the road from Xavantina to the expedition's base camp over 200 km. north of Xavantina, in the vicinity of the base camp and up to 60 km. north of it,
also around the Rio Suiá Missu crossing.
Some collectors collected as far south as the Goiás border at Barra do Garças. The participants were as follows :

ARGENT, GEORGE C.G.

Aug. - Nov. 1967; June - Sept. 1968
(Nos. 6297-6758)

Argent collected both in his own number series and in P.W. Richards' number series.
Since both series were around the same numbers
care should be taken in citation of Argent collections.

1877-78 trip he was accompanied by C. Jobert, and 1882 trip by Netto.

Schwacke collected about 14,000 specimens in Brazil, but the majority were from the south. The numeration of his specimens is confused since some bear his own number series and some a separate number series for each expedition. In addition to this much Schwacke material was pirated by Glaziou. Many collections labelled 'Glaziou, environs of Rio de Janeiro' are in fact Schwacke collections from Amazonia.

The first set of Schwacke collections belonging to one of the Minas Gerais herbaria was lost in transit between Brazil and Italy, but the Museu Nacional, Rio de Janeiro has the largest holdings of his material.
